

W. A. Howe, an enterprising merchant of Carlton, and D. J. Olds, are in this place working in the interests of changing the termination of the mail route from North Yamhill to Carlton. The change would be of great advantage to this place, and with a little work a new route could be made that would not be subject to snow blockades during the winter.