

HEBO.

C. A. Willey, our enterprising boot, shoe and harness man, is kept busy now at his bench.

The farmers of this vicinity have been improving their time during the good weather, in repairing the damage done by the wind storms.

Our saddler received a surprise a few days ago, in the shape of an order for a pair of stirrup straps eleven feet long, which would seem to indicate that giants are not yet extinct.