

NESTUCCA.

Weather clear and cold.

Farmers are plowing and putting in some garden.

The bee-keepers are looking after their bees, and getting their hives ready for swarming time. But we do not have enough bees on the Nestucca; there will probably be more honey than bees this year.

The directors have not yet secured a teacher for the school at Woods. We are anxious to have school commence soon.

G. W. Steele is putting up a nice residence in Woods, for himself. Mr. Steele is a fine workman and always does good work.

Dr. J. W. Inman has the lumber on the ground for his residence. The doctor is getting quite aged, and his office will probably be at his new suburban residence for the present. His health is much improved over what it was a few months ago.

Dr. Linton is sick with a severe attack of the LaGrippe. We sincerely hope this will not last long, there is too much sickness in these parts which require his daily attention. The doctor's wife has a bran new baby, about a week old, large and stout, which would be a credit to any doctor. Mother and child are doing well, while the doctor himself is very sick.

Mrs. Collier of Woods, has been quite sick for some time, with a complication of gastric troubles.

Our mail facilities are very good at present; we are receiving our mail three times per week. The service, however, could be much improved by giving us a daily mail and making better connections at Hebo, which we hope will be done soon.
