

The wreckage of the Struan on Sand Beach was sold to Nestucca parties for $100.00. They immediately realized nearly $300.00 for the ship copper which they secured by burning the debris, and the anchors and chains are worth a great deal more if they can be removed to a point from which they can be shipped. There is a great deal of lumber saved from the cargo, and the settlers in the vicinity have laid in a supply that will last them for some time to come.