

SAND LAKE.

Spring has quickened vegetation into vigorous life again and the "sturdy ranchers" of the Sand Lake district are making good use of this fine growing weather, some logging, some fencing, some brushing and some planting, and all striving to secure permanent and happy homes for themselves and friends.

The Steelhead salmon are returning from their home in the ocean, and are again furnishing a supply for the tables of all who relish and appreciate them. They and the wary crab are the forerunners of much delicious fare for the season.

The travel over Cape Lookout and along the beach is reviving again.

Mr. S. Hardman and Jeffie Harris took some of T. J. Harris' calves to Netarts this week.

The water fall of the winter has been so light this season that the stock in this section has done well, and it is hoped that fewer bad and miry places have and will be found by them than usual.
