

FROM WOODS

ED. HEADLIGHT—I write to express the admiration of many or all of the patrons of your valuable paper, in regard to your illustrated edition, which reached us shortly after New Year. In the words of the Governor, "it is a daisy," and presume many copies have went whirling all over the world, to the great credit of Tillamook.

Woods is still booming.

The Lyceum jury was hung on the Chinese question.

Frank Norberg, the most popular man of Woods, is on his way back to his business. Frank is a genuine good fellow admired by all who know him. He is the owner of one of Nestucca's best farms, and we judge from the smiles we saw a fair lady cast at him, he owns one of Nestucca's best hearts. He is at present in the employ of the government, and gets a handsome salary, and no one knows better how to dispose of it to the edification of all better than Frank.
